WE need more competition in the auto industry, not less.

Washington Times | EDITORIAL: Consumers lack confidence in Obama

When lawmakers borrow heavily from private-sector markets to feed their trillion-dollar overspending habit, less capital is available to the rest of the market. That's one of the ways in which the policy impasse on Capitol Hill is sapping energy out of the economy and hope out of consumers. Unless there are some credible signs of fiscal responsibility soon, the high unemployment rates might be here to stay.

Cato Institute | Winners, Losers and Government

The stability of D.C. prices can be found in one word: government — although in more ways than you think. Prices are ultimately driven by supply and demand, and government has had a major impact on both.
