

Constitution Day

Cato Supreme Court Review

By Sandy Williams Monday, September 20, 2010

cato.org

In the Cato Supreme Court Review, leading legal scholars analyze the most important cases of the Supreme Court's most recent term. The Review is published annually on Constitution Day, in tandem with a major symposium. It is the first scholarly review to appear after the term's end and the only one to critique the court from a Madisonian perspective.

"Cato, with its emphasis on limited government and individual rights, has weighed in with a book of essays by academics and practicing lawyers that manages to skewer liberal and conservative justices alike." -Tony Mauro, Supreme Court correspondent, The National Law Journal and Legal Times

"Unquestionably, the definitive volume on the Supreme Court's term." -Tom Goldstein, founder of SCOTUSblog

(and co-chair of litigation and Supreme Court practice at Akin, Gump, Strauss, Hauer & Feld LLP)

The 2009-2010 Cato Supreme Court Review will be available for purchase after September 16th, as well as at Cato's ninth annual Constitution Day Symposium "The Supreme Court: Past and Prologue: A Look at the October 2009 and October 2010 Terms."

Cato

Charles G. Koch is the founder of the Cato Institute (think tank), and his brother is David H. Koch.

Note: David H. Koch is Charles G. Koch's brother, a director at the Cato Institute (think tank), a trustee at the American Museum of Natural History, a 740 Park Avenue, New York resident, a trustee at the Aspen Institute (think tank), a trustee at the Johns Hopkins University, a trustee at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, a trustee at the New York-Presbyterian Hospital, a trustee at Rockefeller University, a trustee at WNET.org, and an overseer at the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center.

Richard C. Holbrooke was a trustee at the American Museum of Natural History, a director at