On September 14 Freedomworks President and CEO Matt Kibbe spoke at The Cato Institute, where he discussed his new book Give Us Liberty: A Tea Party Manifesto ^[1] and the impact of the Tea Party movement is having on the current political discourse.

The Cato Institute on the Tea Party movement:

Nothing has so changed and energized American politics in recent years as has the grassroots Tea Party movement that sprang up in 2009. In rallies, marches, and town-hall meetings since then, hundreds of thousands of Americans have turned out to protest the boundless growth of government spending, regulation, and debt, and call for the restoration of America's basic principles: individual liberty; fiscal responsibility; and, most important, limited constitutional government.

Establishment Democrats and Republicans haven't known quite what to make of the movement. To help them, and all Americans, understand, Give Us Liberty, the new book by Dick Armey and Matt Kibbe, provides "an intimate history of the movement" and what it means for America.
