

Check the real source of the Koch website

In James Frazier's May 17 letter, he calls out the Koch Brothers for being the driving force behind the Tea Party and new representatives. I found many ironies in his letter. He stated that governors and legislatures are not coming up with these ideas on their own.

Someone or something is coordinating these actions. He calls it more sinister and centralized and un-American.

The attack is coming from the Cato Institute, Americans for Prosperity, Heritage Foundation and FreedomWorks.

In attempting to make his point, he incorrectly stated they were all created by and primary funded by the Koch Brothers. He concluded his letter with the paragraph that stated "No one individual, family or corporation should have so much power over our politics." Then directed you to www.americanprogressaction.org, click on "Koch Brothers."

That website is actually one of the dozens of George Soros' funded organizations. This uber-wealthy leftist is also the founder of The Open Society, The Tides Foundation, and Move-on.org... and the list goes on.

Often called the puppet master of Barack Obama, he uses his wealth to promote his political, financial and social engineering agenda. In his own words, Soros states he "enjoys toying with countries, governments and collapsing economies." Soros talks about the United States being his next target. Soros also funds the Apollo Alliance which wrote the stimulus bill. This was not coincidence. He backed Obama because he said his philosophies aligned with his.

To quote you Mr. Frazier "... there is something more centralized and sinister going on and frankly it is un-American." But, it isn't the Koch Brothers.

Kathy Solomon

Parrish

Read more: <http://www.bradenton.com/2011/05/22/v-print/3215619/letters-522.html#ixzz1NBgD15UB>