Jim Doyle receives another F

By Jim Hayett

Sept. 30, 2010 12:39 p.m.

Once again you can't seem to turn your heard and not see more poor grades or polling data about our Governor. Jim Doyle's grade from the Cato Institute fell from a high of D in 2006 to an F in 2010. However, look at the bright side. Doyle can only go up from here and Tom Barrett is a Doyle clone.

The Cato report card gives the lowest grades to Governors who proposed or enacted the biggest tax and spending increases, while Governors who cut or held the line on taxes and reduced spending go to the head of the class. Raising income and business taxes are the most harmful to a state economy—Doyle get's an F!

I also might add is that Governor Doyle also won the WSJ award for sleaziest campaign a few years back. Sadly, Tom Barrett is on the same path. Maybe both Obama and Doyle can campaign for Barrett. That would tickle me plum to death.

"A) "My suggestion about the .....exam given to people like you before you vote..... was taken from a past blog that suggested some sort of history or political exam before one can vote." Jim Hayett

To This:

B) "They fought for you and me so we can be a free nation. Not for liberal democrats to deface our flag and our veterans,..... try to take away our right to a free and private vote....., or intimidate people at voting booths."

The Cato institute is a Free-Market, no Regulation, Libertarian Think Tank funded by one of the billionaire Koch Brother's.

Getting a grade by a rightwing ideologically biased group means nothing.

Captain Oblivious...I see why many call you "oblivious." Cato only graded by how much each gov increased taxes and spending, the biggest job killer for Americans, vs. how much others lowered taxes or cut spending for their states. Try to debate Doyle's F with some facts and data to counter him putting WI in bankruptcy. Or are we going to get the same old rhetoric that you give when Obama and the democrats record deficits and debt come into play?
