

Deceitful Republicans have done nothing to merit our vote

Kenneth Parvin, Jensen Beach

September 28, 2018

With less than two months from the mid-term election, the most important question on our mind should be, “Does any Republican out there deserve my vote?”

Can we think of one solitary bill we should thank Republicans for passing other than lowering taxes on the ultra-rich or obliterating as many benefits as they could as the means of paying for it?

Republicans have removed essential regulations on selected industries that permits them to once again pollute the air we breathe and the water we drink, putting the lives of all Americans in peril.

Republicans have also shown strong opposition to saving the planet from the ravages of global warming by opting out of the Paris Agreement on Climate Change, while once again putting at risk the lives not only of Americans but everyone else on the planet.

And who else but Republicans are responsible for America stupidly and maybe illegally breaking the Iranian Nuclear Deal which was our best chance of controlling Iran's nuclear ambitions?

Should we ask why Republicans need to use questionable schemes in as many as 29 states nationwide to suppress the votes of those who might otherwise vote for their opponent?

We may also question why the Republican Party needs as many as 30 so-called "think tanks" such as the Heritage Foundation, the Cato Institute, the American Enterprise Institute, Freedom Works etc., etc., to generate their political agenda?

In reality these institutions are nothing more than propaganda hubs whose sole purpose is to confuse voters with unfounded conspiracy theories and malicious lies about Republicans' political opponents in a shameless effort to steal our vote.

Please use the power of your vote wisely on Election Day.