Vote Without Fear

In countries like China, free elections are void. Voting in America without knowing the facts and our shared values, however, is an abuse of power, just like politicians who mislead or lie. Take the topic “crime and border security”. Instead of relying on NSNBC, Fox News or Putin’s trolls, do a fact-check. In 2018:

- Using 2015 crime data from Texas, the Cato Institute found illegal immigrants were 25 percent less likely to be convicted of homicide than native-born Americans.
- An article in the journal Criminology showed violent crime seems to fall when more illegal immigrants are living in a community.
- In an interview with NPR in May, White House chief of staff John Kelly said, "The vast majority of the people that move illegally into the United States are not bad people," and "They're not criminals. They're not MS-13" gang members.

Please vote against those who spread groundless fears and hate; vote for candidates who value quality education, affordable health care and a clean environment for all!
