

The Washington Times

Biden's immoral, sleazy vote-buying, student debt forgiveness scheme

Cheryl K. Chumley

October 19, 2022

The Cato Institute filed a lawsuit against the Department of Education, alleging President Joe Biden's plans to erase student loans violates taxpayer rights.

Absolutely correct. This is a cut-and-dry instance of Peter getting screwed to pay off Paul's loans.

Why should those who've paid, worked hard to pay, or are still working hard to pay off student debt suffer for the laziness and whininess of Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez look-alike losers?

Or, as Cato CEO Peter Goettler put it: "Forcing taxpayers to pick up the tab for other people's college loans is bad policy, but in the case of President Biden's order, it is also illegal because neither President Biden nor the Department of Education has the power to cancel student loans without congressional authorization," The Hill reported.

Just this week, Team Biden opened its Education Department website doors for millions in America to apply for loan forgiveness of up to $10,000 for those who earn less than $125,000 per year and up to $20,000 for those who are part of the Pell Grant program. Those who are paying off debt from private lenders are excluded from the forgiveness program — but only because other entities have already filed lawsuits that would have convoluted the process of debt cancellation due to state tax policies.