

<http://reason.com/blog/2011/01/28/reasontv-expanding-choice-thro>

Reason.tv: Expanding Choice through Tax Credits - Q&A with Cato's Andrew Coulson

January 28, 2011

Andrew Coulson, director of the Center for Education Freedom at the Cato Institute, believes giving businesses tax credits for sending kids to private school is the most effective way to expand school choice. The regulatory and legal obstacles to charters schools and vouchers, he argues, present too many hassles to work around.

Reason.tv sat down with Coulson at the National Summit on Education Reform in Washington, D.C. to talk about the public education tax credits and more.

This interview is part of National School Choice Week, a non-partisan initiative to raise awareness of how competition and choice can transform K-12 education.

Approximately 6 minutes. Filmed by Jim Epstein and Meredith Bragg, and edited by Epstein. Interview by Nick Gillespie.

Go to Reason.tv for downloadable versions, and subscribe to Reason.tv's YouTube Channel to receive automatic notification when new material goes live.

For Reason.tv's education videos, go here.

For Reason.com's coverage of education, go here.

For education policy research from Reason Foundation, the nonprofit that publishes this website, go here.