January 31, 2022

The Idaho Freedom Foundation and Idaho Freedom Action are pleased to announce an upcoming rally featuring Corey DeAngelis, a leading advocate for education choice and national director of research at the American Federation for Children.

The rally will take place on Monday, February 7, 2022 from 7-8:30 p.m. at the Basque Center in downtown Boise. Corey will address the urgent need for school choice in Idaho and discuss how parents can advocate for policies that give them control over their children's education.

During his visit, Corey will also meet with legislators to explain why Idaho should fund students, not systems. He will advocate for policies that give students and their families the power to pursue the method of education that works best for them.

Corey also serves as executive director at Educational Freedom Institute, senior fellow at Reason Foundation, and adjunct fellow at Cato Institute. His research on the effects of school choice has been published in dozens of journals, reports, and books.

Space for the Fund Students, Not Systems Rally is limited, so reserve your free tickets now. Click here to save your seats now.
