

IWF Welcomes Rachel Chiu as a Visiting Fellow

July 7th, 2022

IWF is delighted to welcome one of our newest visiting fellows, Rachel Chiu. Rachel is a technology policy expert at the Cato Institute. She will join IWF's CEO as a visiting fellow, focusing on technology freedom and the importance of technology for women (and men) today. We are thrilled to have Rachel cover these new and important issues for us. Welcome Rachel!

Meet Rachel below.

Rachel Chiu is a public policy researcher and writer based in Washington, DC. She focuses on technology and regulatory policy and has written about topics such as antitrust, content moderation, and the gig economy. Her commentary has been featured in local, national, and international news outlets, including USA Today, the National Review, and City AM.

Rachel previously served as the Head of Policy for #MovingForward, a nonprofit dedicated to reforming anti-harassment and discrimination policies for venture capitalist firms around the world. She graduated with high honors from Cornell University.