

Second Amendment no longer applies

By: Tim Bricker – May 16, 2013

To the editor: When I read the Second Amendment, I have to get past the “well regulated militia” part before I read about the right to bear arms. And I got my copy from the conservative Cato Institute.

The NRA has edited half of the Second Amendment away, and the courts apparently are going along, because there is no discussion today that embodies the reason had by the founding fathers for writing the Second Amendment. The Constitution sacred? Apparently, only the parts you agree with.

Another one of those quaint, colonial notions about civic responsibility that do not apply in modern society.

Tim Bricker

Key Largo