Gregory Hill listens & communicates well with his constituents

October 23rd, 2012

To the editor,

I strongly support Gregory Hill for State Representative in Northfield and part of Franklin. I have known Greg for several years but in the last year I have gotten to know him quite well. In 2012, as a freshman member of the House Education Committee, he was a prime player in the passage of signature legislation that allows parents a real opportunity for school choice. The Cato Institute has called this piece of School Choice Legislation the best in the country. This is a remarkable accomplishment for any state rep, let alone a freshman.

Greg really listens and communicates very well with his constituents. He asks excellent questions until he really understands the issue. He is very persistent and he is effective because he has learned quickly how the House and the Senate together actually work on new legislation.

The people of Northfield and part of Franklin are very fortunate to be represented in The New Hampshire House of Representatives by Greg Hill. He deserves your continued support and your vote in Nov.
