

The Legal Intelligencer

THE OLDEST LAW JOURNAL IN THE UNITED STATES 1843-2013

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, APRIL 22, 2013

VOL 247 • NO. 77 $5.00 An ALM Publication

Impact of Roe v. Wade After 40 Years On Monday's The American Law Journal

Tonight at 7 and on-line now on the Philadelphia CNN-News affiliate WFMZ-TV, The American Law Journal presents "40 Years On: Roe v. Wade, the History and Future of Reproductive Rights." Host Christopher Naughton welcomes professor John Culhane of Widener University School of Law, professor Kimberly Mutcherson of Rutgers University School of Law-Camden and Howard J. Bashman, a Philadelphia-area appellate trial attorney. Ilya Shapiro, editor-in-chief of CATO Supreme Court Review, joins the discussion from the CNN studios in Washington, D.C.

CULHANE

"Roe After 40," a six-part symposium conducted throughout 2013 by the law schools of Temple University, University of Pennsylvania, Widener University, Rutgers-Camden and Drexel University, is the brainchild of Culhane and discusses Roe's impact on public health, reproductive rights and more. Mutcherson is also a symposium participant.

MUTCHERSON

BASHMAN

The Legal's senior staff writer, Gina Passarella, and Drexel University Earle Mack School of Law's professor David S. Cohen comment on Roe's past and future impact in an opening feature report.

The program airs today at 7 p.m. and replays at 5:30 p.m. Sunday preceding WFMZ-TV news.

The American Law Journal is the weekly talk-feature program airing on the CNN-News affiliate for Philadelphia, WFMZ-TV 69 to Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware. View WFMZ-HD over the air and on all cable and satellite systems; see <http://bit.ly/ALJchannels>. FiOS system subscribers, tune to channel 15.

Next week on The American Law Journal: "Generic Drug Manufacturers Getting a Free Pass?" •