

Tanner on Health Care Reform Pt.1: You will likely lose the insurance you have

By Maclver Institute on December 7, 2009 12:00 PM | 0 Comments | 0 TrackBacks

The United States Senate held an extremely rare Sunday session this past weekend, as efforts to forge a health care reform bill continued. While the world's attention may be turning to Copenhagen and the 'global warming' debate this week, health care reform remains a top issue back here at home.

Wisconsin Manufacturers and Commerce recently brought Michael Tanner, a senior fellow with the Cato Institute, to Wisconsin for a series of presentations to business owners and others concerned about pending federal health care reform legislation.

In this segment, Tanner explains how, contrary to some of the rhetoric heard from Washington, the 'reform' measures being formulated there WILL result in the majority of Americans losing their current coverage--regardless of whether or not they are satisfied with their current insurance plan.

Categories: Health Care, Maclver News

Tags: Cato Institute, Health Care Reform, Maclver Institute, Michael Tanner, WMC