Cato expert discusses the ‘climate coup’ that has overtaken the federal government

Posted on July 18, 2011 at 3:28 pm

Global warming alarmism does more damage than you might expect, invading much of our federal government’s policy and affecting all of our lives.

Patrick Michaels, senior fellow at the Cato Institute, makes that argument in the new book Climate Coup. He discussed key themes from that book during a presentation today to the John Locke Foundation’s Shaftesbury Society. In the video clip below, he outlines key flaws in the argument for the Waxman-Markey cap-and-trade bill that cleared the U.S. House of Representatives in 2009.
