Cato chairman to discuss Supreme Court health care case

By Bruce Vielmetti of the Journal Sentinel
April 17, 2012

Robert A. Levy, chairman of the board of the Cato Institute, a libertarian think tank, will visit Madison this month to discuss the legal challenge of the Affordable Care Act now pending before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Levy will appear April 30 as part of a session sponsored by the Federalist Society.

Levy has clerked for a Supreme Court justice, taught law, founded an investment firm and written a book. *The Dirty Dozen: How Twelve Supreme Court Cases Radically Expanded Government and Eroded Freedom*. He has appeared as an analyst and commentator on public policy on network news and issues shows.

Joining Levy will be Michael D. Leffel, a partner at Foley & Lardner's Madison office.

The discussion starts at 11:30 a.m. at the Madison Club, 5 East Wilson St. The cost is $15 for Federalist Society members, $20 for non-members. Lunch is included.
