

Overlawyered

Chronicling the high cost of our legal system

“Does Cabbie’s Fear of Dogs Trump Requirement to Allow Service Dogs?”

By: Walter Olson

September 18, 2012

In Connecticut, disability vs. disability: “A cab driver who claims he suffers from cynophobia (a fear of dogs) and who refused to pick up a blind customer with a service dog has filed a federal lawsuit against his employer for discrimination on account of his disability after he was fired.”
[Daniel Schwartz]