

PLF LIBERTY BLOG

PACIFIC LEGAL FOUNDATION

U.S. Supreme Court to decide important property rights issues

 April 3, 2012  Brian T. Hodges

Yesterday, the U.S. Supreme Court agreed to hear the temporary takings case, Arkansas Game & Fish Commission v. United States. Our friends at the Cato Institute wrote this article highlighting the importance of the case to private landowners.

Related posts:

1. Who should decide whether a Washington property owner has suffered a taking?
2. Property rights trump ambiguous rules, that much is clear
3. Constitutionality of Kitsap County's shoreline buffers submitted to U.S. Supreme Court
4. PLF and Goldwater Institute vindicate private property rights in Arizona
5. U.S. Supreme Court to review important property rights case