

Mitt Romney, the GOP's Bridge to Oblivion

Written by Gregg Jackson and John Haskins

Monday, 20 July 2009 21:33

By Gregg Jackson and John Haskins

Almost no one in politics or the media will admit it in public, but the GOP lost the Presidency in 2008 by alienating the moral conservative base that the elites loathe. Many stayed home or voted third party, rejecting a nominee who was in fundamental aspects a liberal Democrat.

That is why Barry Sotero - a radical socialist with Islamic roots posing as a Christian, groomed for years by Marxist revolutionaries, who hides essential documents of his birth, education and career, who campaigned with illegal funding from overseas interests, who as far as 300 million Americans can honestly tell, was born in a foreign country and (under the plain language of the Supreme Law of the United States, the Constitution) cannot legally be our President, who lacks even the executive experience of a night manager at a self-serve gas station - nevertheless sleeps in the White House.

That's why. Do the homework. Look at the demographics.

There are millions of voters who will not allow anyone to force them to choose between:

A. A slick-talking Marxist with no papers, no real qualifications, who voted for killing unwanted newborn babies wiggling and crying on hospital tables (for the unforgivable crime of surviving an abortion),

And

B. A liberal Republican with no allegiance to the Constitution, no convictions about infanticide, or defending natural marriage, nor the right of every child to a natural human family, but who brazenly lies into the camera and magically morphs into a "conservative" before elections.

"Excuse me, sir; did you want four drops of cyanide with that Kool-Aid or just three?"

Hard as it is to break old habits, it might be prudent for Republican power brokers not to serve up any cyanide next time.

In the last two weeks, one potential GOP presidential nominee, South Carolina's Governor Sanford, squandered his options when his adulterous affair became public. Then the 2008 GOP vice-presidential nominee, Alaska Governor Sarah Palin, abruptly resigned. Some prognosticators speculate this move anticipates a presidential run. Others say it kills her chances for 2012.

This is music to the jaded ears of GOP's limousine-chasing lawyers, pundits and other hot shots who did the hard-selling for former Massachusetts' Governor Willard Mitt Romney in '08. Ann Coulter, Laura Ingraham, Tony Perkins, Jay Sekulow, Hugh Hewitt, James Bopp and Bill Bennett continue to peddle the bizarre claim that Romney is our man for 2012.

Memo to the GOP:

We're tired of the Kool-Aid. If you try again to force Willard Mitt Romney down our throats, or anyone remotely like him, we will gag and you will lose. Again. Barry Sotero will continue his scorched earth war against everything that made America good and prosperous.

Conservatives will not turn out in large enough numbers to defeat Obama to vote for a Republican-branded liberal with no allegiance to the Constitution, no convictions about infanticide or defending natural marriage or the right of every child to a natural human family who lies brazenly and morphs into a "conservative" before elections.

Been there. Done that. More than once.

Lurking behind Romney's hundred million dollar propaganda machine is the brutal reality that on abortion, marriage, basic parents' rights, sexual indoctrination of children, homosexual adoption, mandatory socialized health care, taxes and the economy, he did to Massachusetts much of the damage Barry Sotero has in mind for America.

Although Romney is peddled surrealistically as a man "whom pro-family voters could support" (Dr. James Dobson), "a friend to the pro-family movement" (failed former Dobson protégé Tony Perkins), and "manifestly our best candidate" in the GOP (Ann Coulter), his record brutally exposes him as a Barack Obama in a flimsy Reagan costume.

Purportedly "conservative" media like Human Events, National Review, Fox News and the nearly bankrupt Townhall.com/Salem Radio tirelessly concealed that as governor of Massachusetts Romney actually:

- Signed in a socialist healthcare plan endorsed by Hillary Clinton and Ted Kennedy that in the words of the Wall St. Journal is in "intensive care" whose costs are expected to more than double and which the Cato Institute and Boston Globe have said is a total failure.
  - Pretending that a court opinion forced him to, established $50 abortions as a "healthcare benefit" in his socialist medical plan endorsed by Planned Parenthood (AFTER his purported "pro-life conversion").
  - Unconstitutionally established a permanent Planned Parenthood representative on the state health care board. (with no pro-life appointee)
  - Under cover of the legally impotent Goodridge court opinion, fulfilled a secret 2002 campaign promise to homosexual "Log Cabin" Republicans by unconstitutionally bypassing the Legislature and imposing homosexual "marriage" in direct violation of the marriage laws. Romney lied about the state Constitution which explicitly says the governor and judges have no such authority.
  - Boosted government funding for pro-homosexuality indoctrination of schoolchildren.
  - Refused throughout his entire time in office to enforce the statute guaranteeing parents' right to protect their own children from such indoctrination.
  - Cited a non-existent "law" to illegally and unconstitutionally force Catholic Charities to place foster and adoptive children with homosexuals or go out of business (which they ultimately did). Former Gov. Mike Dukakis exposed this as a brazen lie.
  - Over-ruled his own health commissioner to force Catholic Hospitals to administer abortion pills, claiming he was required to by law. Former Gov. Mike Dukakis exposed this too as a lie.
  - Opposes a ban on homosexual scoutmasters.
  - Opposed the Bush Tax Cuts.
- Raised taxes and fees by over $900 million as governor which has destroyed the Massachusetts economy.

During the primaries in '08 one of the authors of this article told conservative activist Phyllis Schlafly that she and other conservative "pro-family" leaders should unify behind an authentic conservative early on to make that candidate competitive with the cash-laden frontrunners, all of whom were liberals (Romney, McCain and Giuliani). Schlafly answered that though she liked Duncan Hunter she would wait to see "how things shake out."

Well we know how they "shook out." And it aint pretty. Serious scholars of the Constitution question whether the person sleeping in the White House and printing all the fake money is even legally the President and Commander-in Chief or just an ineligible person of alien birth whom the media slipped past the electorate.

GOP power brokers still stubbornly shilling for Romney would be wise to follow the lead of the late Paul Weyrich, a founder of the Reagan Revolution, who in February of '08 told conservative leaders in a packed room at the Council for National Policy meeting in New Orleans: "endorsing Romney was the biggest mistake of my life."

To halt this country's steep decline into a failed socialist system with an authoritarian reach and Orwellian government never experienced in America, Republicans must boldly and unequivocally break ranks with counterfeit conservatives such as Romney and unify behind authentic social and fiscal conservative candidates. The clock is ticking. There's no time to waste.

The definition of insanity is doing the same thing over and over and expecting a different outcome. Cyanide is cyanide. We may be stupid but we're not crazy. Nominating Mitt Romney would bring the death of two-party democracy and a tragedy for America.

Romney=GOP RIP in 2012.

----

Gregg Jackson is the national best-selling author of Conservative Comebacks to Liberal Lies, former radio host on WRKO in Boston and KDAR in Los Angeles, an accomplished speaker who speaks to groups on college campuses nationwide and writer whose articles have been published in The Wall St. Journal, Washington Times, Human Events, and Townhall.com.

Contact: gregg.jackson@gmail.com

John Haskins, proprietor of UndergroundJournal.net, has interviewed Nobel Prize-winning President Lech Walesa and Tadeusz Mazowiecki (Poland's first post-communist prime minister), reported from Albanian refugee camps during the Balkan War and from Eastern Europe on the tenth anniversary of the fall of communism. A commentator and strategic analyst on constitutionalism, religious freedom and freedom of speech and parents' rights, he has published in the American Spectator, Insight and World magazine, WorldNetDaily and other outlets. He earned post-graduate degrees in Mass Media and Education Policy, the latter at Oxford. A former media executive and editor, he taught at the university level in Europe. He is nationally recognized for his documentation and analysis of Mitt Romney's ultra-liberal record and how he bribed and seduced the "conservative" establishment, "pro-life" leaders and prominent lawyers into covering it up.

Last Updated on Monday, 20 July 2009 21:46