Call for Book Reviews

A Journal of Interdisciplinary Normative Studi Posted on October 16, 2011 by carriann

Reason Papers would like to solicit reviews of the following books for future issues. (We'll be adding to the list periodically.) Interested reviewers should send an email indicating their interest in writing a review, indicating the book(s) to be reviewed, and a current CV. The editors welcome book review suggestions as well.

We run two kinds of reviews—short reviews of up to 3,000 words, and longer review essays of up to 5,000 words (or more, in special cases). Review essays may combine several books on the same topic or similar ones. We prefer that reviews run within two or three years (four at the latest) of the book's publication date.

Please address all book review correspondence to reasonpapers@gmail.com, with the phrase "book review" in the subject line. Note that all review assignments are at the editors' discretion. Reviews of the books listed below will most likely run in our 2013 issue or beyond.

Art history/aesthetics

Dmitry Tymozsko, A Geometry of Music: Harmony and Counterpart in the Extended Common Practice (Oxford, 2011).

Economics/Business

Hardy Bouillon, Business Ethics and the Austrian Tradition in Economics (Routledge, 2011).

Jeffrey Friedman and Wladimir Kraus, Engineering the Financial Crisis: Systemic Risk and the Failure of Regulation (University of Pennsylvania, 2011).

Gretchen Morgenson and Joshua Rosner, Reckless Endangerment: How Outsized Ambition, Greed, and Corruption Led to Economic Armageddon (Times Books, 2011).

History

Gordon S. Wood, The Idea of America: Reflections on the Birth of the United States (Penguin, 2011).

Legal Studies

Scott Gerber, A Distinct Judicial Power: The Origins of an Independent Judiciary, 1606-1787 (Oxford, 2011).

David Mayer, Liberty of Contract: Rediscovering a Lost Constitutional Right (Cato Institute, 2011).

Near East/Islamic Studies/Jewish Studies

Omar Barghouti, Boycott, Divestment, Sanctions: The Global Struggle for Palestinian Rights (Haymarket, 2011).

Roane Carey ed., The Case for Sanctions Against Israel (Verso, 2011).

Patricia Crone et al, The Princeton Encyclopedia of Islamic Political Thought (Princeton, forthcoming 2012).

Albert S. Lindeman and Richard S. Levy ed., Anti-Semitism: A History (Oxford, 2010).

Philosophy

Scott F. Aikin, Epistemology and the Regress Problem (Routledge, 2010).

Ann Cudd & Nancy Holmstren, Capitalism: For and Against, A Feminist Debate (Cambridge, 2011).

Julia Driver, Consequentialism (Routledge, forthcoming 2012).

Alison Hills, Beloved Self: Morality and the Challenge from Egoism (Oxford, 2010).

Stephen Kershner, Desert and Virtue: A Theory of Intrinsic Value (Lexington, 2009).

Tamara Metz, Untying the Knot: Marriage, the State, and the Case for their Divorce (Princeton, 2010).

Sociology

Richard Arum and Josipa Roska, Academically Adrift: Limited Learning on College Campuses (University of Chicago, 2010). Our strong preference is for a review essay of this book in the neighborhood of 5,000 words that discusses both the book and its critical reception, and also makes some significant reference to Charles Murray's Real Education: Four Simple Truths for Bringing America's Schools Back to Reality (Crown Forum, 2008).
