

Christie heading to DC again

Wednesday May 2, 2012, 6:43 PM

BY HERB JACKSON

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT

The Record

From The Source blog on NorthJersey.com:

Less than a week after he sat at the same table as a starlet and was the target of jokes about his weight at the White House Correspondents Dinner, Governor Christie is headed back to Washington, D.C. on Friday for a dinner hosted by the Cato Institute.

Christie fanned the hype about his possible selection as presumptive presidential nominee Mitt Romney's running mate this week, and the visit will no doubt add to speculation.

He is slated to deliver the keynote address as Cato, a libertarian think tank, awards its Milton Friedman Prize for Advancing Liberty to Mao Yushi, a Chinese activist advocating for free markets.