And when it does crash, Cain should be prepared to leverage it by focusing everyone's attention onto another major platform item. I would recommend that Cain officially support the REINs Act and announce a Deregulation Commission. He could find professionals who would be interested in recommending specific, massive regulatory rollbacks along any and all lines. He could get these people from places like the Cato Institute, the Pacific Research Institute, etc. John Stossel could probably give names. I would like to see Veronique de Rugy have some official influence.
