The Cato Institute's Libertarianism.org website has posted a video I did for them on "The Problem of Political Ignorance." In the video, I explain why political ignorance is a serious problem for modern democracy and why it strengthens the case for limiting and decentralizing government power. As a bonus, the video includes some cool pictures of John Stuart Mill, last year's royal wedding, a 1950s TV, and a wrecked car. It will all make sense if you watch the video! Here it is:
