Why is government defining what is or is not a marriage anyway?

Because government is so intrusive that government has benefits and entitlements for what they defined as “married”.

Gay marriage is a red herring. Its not about civil rights(its about dismantling religion, but thats another story), otherwise they wouldn't have a problem with “civil” unions. Which is pretty much all government recognizes anyway, government doesn't recognize any religions special marriage rules. All “marriages” should be civil unions. There, problem solved. Only reason they called it marriage in the legal sense is cause most people were some sort of religion that believed man + woman.

“Taxation is theft.” Most individuals go their whole lives without recognizing that simple truth.

To hear Napolitano question on national TV the necessity of an army really shows that we are a significant moment in time. It would be wonderful to have him do that again on Fox News (rather than Fox Business) and have that reverberate through the viewers' heads.

Classical liberal...
No one knows what that means either.
