Not too impressed.Thu, 04/15/2010 - 19:50 ET by NeoKong

I winced when the guy said yearly compliance costs 300 billion dollars a year and could give 3.4 million people a full time job. The numbers do not add up. If we generously assume that there are 100 million tax payers then that would mean that every tax payer pays $3,000 to have their taxes filed. I also do not think that 3.4 million people are needed full time to prepare 100 million tax returns. That would mean that it takes them a whole year to file roughly thirty tax returns each.

Remember in November.

You are assuming that it's only personal returns.

It also includes business returns.

3.4 million people might include the IRS workers, CPA's, and other accountants.

I thought we wanted to beFri, 04/16/2010 - 00:21 ET by goldbough

I thought we wanted to be like Europe. "They have free health care in Europe!" But apparently a simple tax code is not something the liberals want.

NEW

Mr. Clean

DISINFECTING BATH CLEANER with febreze freshness

SAVE $3

The advertisement features a white tiled background. On the left, there is a blue speech bubble with the word 'NEW' in white. Next to it is the Mr. Clean character logo. The main text reads 'DISINFECTING BATH CLEANER with febreze freshness'. To the right of the text is a white spray bottle of the product with a green trigger. On the far right, there is a blue button with the text 'SAVE $3' and a white arrow pointing to the right.
