

HINK ABOUT II

| next » |

Thinkers Urge Preemptive War While Liberating The Human Body

Tuesday, January 19: The Cato Institute wants to buy all your bone marrow. It's a renewable resource, after all, and in America we care about such things, and the market should just regulate your cells anyway. The time to liberate bone marrow is now. [Cato Institute]

Wednesday, January 20: China's bad behavior on the Internets has made everyone very upset, because no one likes a censor and soon Google may no longer share its password with China. The New America Foundation looks at Internet freedom amongst those who do not like Internet porn freedom. [New American Foundation]

Thursday, January 21: CSIS wants to only put women on the front lines because women are very pretty and Al Qaeda does not kill pretty people? [CSIS]

Thursday, January 21: That full-scale underfunded War on Yemen we're all looking forward to? The Brookings Institution thinks it may be here before we know it! Preemptive War on Terror, supported by your local think tank. [Brookings Institution]

Friday, January 22: Because Europe has maybe not established itself as the most perfect of all the multi-state nations, the New America Foundation wonders if colonization is a viable option. [New America Foundation]

ShareThis

Lead More:

-  Too Hot To Think
-  Thinkers Employ John McCain To Explain Why Wa...
-  Thinkers Poke Each Other While Crying For The...
-  Thinkers Ring In the New Year With No Origina...
-  Thinkers Talk Turkey

Tagged:

brookings institution, cato, new america foundation, think about it, film, stage

1:09 PM on Mon January 18 2010

By Arielle Fleisher
514 Views

SayItWithWookies says at 1:52 pm, January 18th, 2010

Relating to the CSIS seminar, Bill Moyers interviewed Greg Morenson, who's setting up girls' schools in Pakistan and Afghanistan — it was a pretty cool story, and the pictures of the Afghan village elders playing on the swingset is priceless.

Leave a Reply

Login or create a nickname and avatar