

November 12, 2009

Thursday's Daily News

Harry Reid is prepping a new "jobs bill" for next year. No details yet on what's in it.

National Review: Senate Republicans explain their plans to block Obamacare.

The Wall Street Journal editorial board writes about the upcoming 69% capital gains tax hike.

Here are 12 reasons why unemployment is going to (at least) 12 percent.

Trade expert Scott Lincicome writes about "Mercantilist Max" Baucus, chairman of the Senate Finance committee.

A victim of the minimum wage speaks.

Forbes releases its list of the world's most powerful people.

Economist Steven Landsburg has a brain teaser to make the point that silence conveys information, silence in the face of silence conveys even more information, and silence in the face of silence in the face of silence conveys even more.

Cato's Gene Healy writes about Obama's arrogance of power.

Is it the Tea Party vs. GOP incumbent Bob Bennett in Utah?

Posted at Andrew Roth at 10:40 AM | TrackBack | ShareThis
