

December 1, 2009

SHARE

On Tuesday's Mark Levin Show: Mark gives his commentary on President Obama's speech at West Point regarding Afghanistan. Mark says that the President has spent all this time dithering, when he could have made his decision months ago when he was originally asked for more troops. Furthermore, he was asked for more additional troops than the 30,000 or so that he is sending. Mark also asks how we are supposed to fight a war by dragging our feet, and also by putting a deadline on when our troops will leave there? Finally, Mark talks about accused cop killer Maurice Clemmons who was shot and killed by police earlier Tuesday.

THIS IS FROM

The Heritage Foundation

The Timing Contradictions of Obama's Afghan Decision

American Spectator

Huck Fin-ished

Baptist Planet

Huckabee pardons himself re Washington

Hot Air Pundit

Rep. Maurice Hinchey: Bush Adm. Deliberately Let Osama Bin Laden Escape To Justify War In Iraq

AP

Police: Woods at fault in crash, will get citation

Cato-At-Library.org

ObamaCare's Cost Could Top \$6 Trillion

NBC New York

NYPD Commish: Nobody Asked Us About Hosting the 9/11 Trials

Politico.com

Dick Cheney slams President Obama for projecting 'weakness'