Missouri is an Ominous Sign for Dems

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL James Taranto, Wall Street Journal

They told us that Americans would learn to stop worrying about ObamaCare. To judge by yesterday's election in Missouri, they were wrong.

Official election returns show that citizens of the Show Me State overwhelmingly--71% to 29% in favor of Proposition C, a ballot measure described in a pre-election report from Time magazine. Time describes the vote as "largely symbolic." Other states that have already passed such opt-out laws via legislative action rather than voter initiative, and the real test will come in the courts. But symbolism matters. If the constitutional question is a difficult one, it's possible that judges will resolve it on the side of public opinion. And of course the public's reaction to ObamaCare is likely to influence the politicians who have...

Of course, what the liberals don't want to talk about is the fact that over 40,000 democrats voted for C also.

And they picked up 43% of the African American vote. . . .a group that supports Obama by 88%. Yet, 43% of them voted for C. . . .

This wasn't a "right wing" anger vote. . .his was a bipartisan rejection of Washington.

And yet, the liberal pundits were all over the place trying to discount the mega phone that Missouri used to yell at Washington.

It's another red flag to democrats who just don't want to hear the voters. Yea, Sen McCaskill from MO claimed she "got the message" and then went on to discount the message by saying "people just don't understand what's in this bill for them."

Rawwwwwwwwwwwright. . .do you see the arrogance and the refusal to listen to the people?

This is what is going to bring down the democrats. . . .and we're heading for some major constitutional challenges in our future that will rip at the fabric of our nation.

Here's the even funnier part of the idiot liberals and the federal judges. . . .

You judges? If you disregard the constitution. . . .and disregard states' rights. . . .where do you think your power comes from?

Yea. . .that's right, the very constitution you are ignoring.

so. . .if it's ok for you to ignore the constitution, what makes you think anyone else, or any states should honor that paper. . . .and therefore, by extension. . . .why would anyone have to give a rats you know what about your opinions?

Afterall. . . .if your power is from the Constitution. . . .and we don't need to pay attention to the constitution, we don't have to pay attention to you, either, right?

Think that one through you idiots on the bench. . . .

Still think you're all that? Hmmm? Still think you're important? Afterall. . . .the states have their own court systems. . . .have their own constitutions.

Do we really need you? And your weirdo decisions which are a contradiction to our constitution?

Stop being short sited and think that all the way through you idiots. . . .is that the message you want to send to the nation? That the US constitution isn't important?

Because you make yourselves irrelevant the very second you make our constitution irrelevant.you may wanna rethink your positions and get back to adhering to that paper. . . .because that paper is the only reason you exist.
