

Matt Yglesias

Dec 11th, 2009 at 6:14 pm

Endgame

The cheap thrills always seem to fade away:

- This US-India nuclear deal from years back has always struck me as bizarre.
- Cato says drug reimportation will undermine foreign price controls not import them to the US.
- Michael Cohen thinks Woodrow Wilson’s white supremacy was a small price to pay for stepped-up labor market regulation.
- John Boenher’s lack of vision.
- Wall Street and climate change.
- Maybe Pakistan understands its own threat environment perfectly well.
- What happens when Irish parliamentarians stop being polite and start getting real.

Today WOXY went back in time and played their top 30 songs list from back in 1994. Was an awesome year for music featuring, among others, Toad The Wet Sprocket’s “Fall Down”.

- Comments
- 25

25 Responses to “Endgame”

1. StevenAttewell Says:
December 11th, 2009 at 6:38 pm

Citing Cato on price controls? Not a good idea.

2. James Gary Says:
December 11th, 2009 at 6:44 pm

1994. Was an awesome year for music featuring, among others, Toad The Wet Sprocket’s “Fall