

Arizona Hispanic Republicans

Michelle Malkin is a cancer to the GOP with her tea party divisiveness; Seems to hate Catholics, too.

by DeeDee Garcia on Aug. 24, 2011, under Secure Borders and Reasonable Immigration Solution, Tequila Party Movement, The Nativist Anti-immigrant Movement

0

Recommend

Send

Tequila party

On 24 August 2011, Michelle Malkin writes an extreme and divisive oped targeting the DREAM Act.

She claims she is not for 'more regulation' when in fact she is for more regulation when it comes to the immigration issue albeit e-verify bureaucratic measures. These tea party extremists are extremely hypocritical when they try to appear intellectual when it comes to free market thinking, yet, they spew rhetoric contrary to what the CATO Institute says about deregulation and freer markets.

In her below op-ed in the National Review Online, you will see insinuations where she is clearly trying to pit the Latinos against the African-American people. Malkin has joined the ranks of the birthers and nativist thinkers who have hijacked the anti-immigrant Tea party. Republicans like Malkin are contributing to the loss of GOP Latino voters as they become increasingly turned off by anti-Latino rhetoric.

However, her divide and conquer strategy will not work to her favor as we head into 2012. Frankly, Americans are sick and tired of Tea Party divisiveness. Recall that the Tea Party advocated for complete government shutdown like a bunch of anarchists, and also recall when Tea party freshmen wanted to push the debt crisis talks beyond the deadline. Their partisan nature of pushing beyond the deadline was like opening pandora's box as global markets started to lose confidence in the United States because our Representatives can't take care of American in a timely and orderly fashion.

The Tea Party consists of bunch of conflict-ridden people who do not believe in keeping the United State UNITED. They are more inclined to destroy and bring about their disruptive nature that has become a cancer into our nation.

P.S. Michelle Malkin seems to hate Catholics for being the Christian Compassionate types that they are. The GOP had better stay away from her if they want to entertain the Catholic vote in 2012.

August 24, 2011 12:00 A.M.

Pander-Mandate Mania!

Just what the economy needs: more regulation.

By Michelle Malkin

You know what else won't benefit black unemployed Americans all that much? The new White House executive order granting mass deportation waivers. To mollify open-borders activists, Obama signed a blanket directive of immigration non-enforcement last week that will grant reprieves to at least an estimated 2.1 million "DREAM Act" illegal-alien students and workers. Instead of deportation papers, they'll be served work-authorization permits and green lights to attend publicly supported colleges and universities. Those who refuse to hire or admit these golden ticket waiver winners will face the certain and immediate legal and political wrath of La Raza, the American Civil Liberties Union, Catholic leaders, and the American Immigration Lawyers Association.

Read entire article here.

This entry was posted on Wednesday, August 24th, 2011 at 8:39 am and is filed under Secure Borders and Reasonable Immigration Solution, Tequila Party Movement, The Nativist Anti-immigrant Movement. You can follow any responses to this entry through the RSS 2.0 feed. You can skip to the end and leave a response. Pinging is currently not allowed.

1

RSS feed for this post \(comments\)
